I am a multidimensional product leader, marketer/creative director and video based content developer with a passion for developing and marketing innovative, consumer-centric products. I have a proven track record in creating highly successful solutions across B2B and B2B2C markets for start-ups and fortune 500 companies. I've launched multiple digital businesses and developed successful go-to-market strategies taking products from concept to acquisition.

As a hands-on product leader, creative director, mentor and coach I empower team members to think different, inspiring them to reach well-defined goals with creative solutions. I advocate open and fluid communication, fostering collaboration between business units, marketers, and technologists. I build and manage cross-functional teams instilling Agile methodology principles and promoting sustainable development cycles. I establish long-term strategic roadmaps while focusing on short-term deliverables and embracing an ever-changing consumer environment.
